

Coming up with a better solution to a different problem, you don't see the different problem you are solving, that is applying that same solution to a different problem. If you don't see the different problem you are solving, that is applying that same solution to a different problem.